

ABILITYNET

ADAPTING TECHNOLOGY, CHANGING LIVES

Project URL: abilitynet.org.uk

Project Twitter: @abilitynet

Organisation Twitter: @AbilityNet

- Health
- Social Exclusion
- Audiovisual
- Internet
- Physical Computing

AbilityNet has a team of consultants and testers who help businesses, charities and public bodies to design and maintain accessible websites, apps and other digital tools. As well as blue-chip companies such as Barclays, The FA and Microsoft, AbilityNet also supplied accessibility services for the London 2012 Olympic and Paralympic websites.

Technology can help people with all types of disability and impairment, but everyone has different needs. AbilityNet's professional assessors carefully identify the mix of technologies and adaptations that enable a disabled person to be more productive at work, at home or in education.

AbilityNet has been a leading authority on accessibility and assistive technologies for 20 years. It continues to provide a range of free services for disabled people, their families and friends, employers and carers.

Last updated: 23rd of June, 2014