Abundance is a leading direct investment platform giving people control over their money. People invest from £5 in energy projects that generate something good for the environment and society, as well as bank-beating returns.

Since Abundance launched in July 2012 it has raised more than £10m to fund community-scale energy projects from individual investors buying debentures.

With a choice of projects, investors know where their money is going and how it is working for them. They receive regular capital repayments and investment returns, along with updates on energy generation. At the same time, the world benefits from energy that is renewable and sustainable, and communities enjoy a range of perks, from reduced energy bills to community dividends.
