Amulyte is a pendant that enables those who are in distress to send emergency texts and emails through to family members and caregivers, containing the location and alerting them to whether the person needs assistance.

Amulyte also has a 2-way radio so that the person can be talked to and reassured while help is on the way.

It works anywhere so the person can be on the move or at home and still be connected in emergency situations.

It isn't available yet, but can be pre-ordered from the website.
