BeatBullying is an international charity working and campaigning to make bullying unacceptable in the UK and across Europe.

Their 'CyberMentors' programme provides online peer mentoring for those being bullied or worried about others. Their services attract around 25,000 unique visitors every month, they have trained over 2,000 young people as mentors, and their site has more than 7,000 registered users.

BeatBullying believes that no one should endure the pain, fear or isolation of being bullied, and that everyone has the right to be safe from bullying, violence and harassment.
