Good News Shared is using technology to bring about a change in the way the charity sector is viewed in the UK by the general public. On the whole, the general public do not understand how the charity sector works and what they do. Good News Shared focuses on the success and achievements of charities, particularly small charities, with the aim of raising awareness of the impact charities have on our society. By sharing articles on the Good News Shared website, readers are helping to spread awareness of positive charitable actions taking place.
