

I WANT YOU TO WANT ME

BUILDING A BAROMETER OF MODERN ATTITUDES TOWARDS DESIRE, EACH OTHER, AND OURSELVES.

By New York's Museum of Modern Art

Project URL: number27.org/iwytwm

Project Twitter: @jjhnumber27

Organisation URL: moma.org

Organisation Twitter: @MuseumModernArt

- Community Engagement
- Data
- Internet
- Open Source
- Social Software

I want you to want me is a digital project, created by artists Jonathan Harris and Sep Kamvar. It scraped phrases and data from the legion of dating websites around the world, and visualised them to build a barometer of modern attitudes towards desire, each other, and ourselves. It was a commission for New York's Museum of Modern Art and went on show on Valentine's Day 2008.

Last updated: 09th of May, 2014