Riziki Source is a social enterprise driving innovation in the field of disability and employment. Any person with a disability looking for a job or internship in Kenya can send a text message to a short code, which is integrated with a mobile app hosted on the website. The app is pre-loaded with set questions that the user answers via text message. This creates a user profile including the type of disability, level of qualification, and type of job being sought.

This service is provided at a small fee to employers, and training is offered on how to accommodate employees with disabilities in their workplaces.
