#techmums is a training programme that offers mums the chance to improve their digital skills. Through a series of hands-on workshops, mums can learn everything from the basics of online security and social media, to more advanced training around app and web design.

#techmums courses help women to harness their potential, giving them the confidence, skills and inspiration to play an active role in our shared digital future. Kids have been known to be in awe of the fact that their mum has had a go at designing an app! At the end of the five-week course, each mum gets a graduation certificate, regardless of the level they reach. Hitting certain measurements isn't the focus. Instead #techmums celebrates the overall achievement of gaining confidence in using technology.
